County's New Well Halted At 4,410

At a depth of 4,410 feet, drilling was stopped on the Pure Oil Co.'s State No. 1 wildcat test well in Beaver Creek township. Several oil zones were found by the test between the depths of 4,000 and 4,400 feet bearing out oil men's statement of the discovery of a new oil pool.

Preliminary tests of the well's value as a commercial producer have indicated production of 20 to 30 barrels a day. However, if the well responds to acid treatment in a manner equal to wells in the East Norwich field, six miles to the southwest, the Crawford wildcat may eventually be completed as a bigger well than now indicated.

Geologists said oil pay formations on the Pure wildcat are comparable to those found in the East Norwich area.

Wedding Bells

Boone-Fairbotham

Miss Virginia Dawn Boone became the bride of George Vernon Fairbotham, Saturday, July 19, at 8:30 P. M. at the Grayling Evangelical Lutheran Church parsonage. Rev. Svend Holm officiated. Miss Joyce Scott of Lovells was the bride's attendant and Richard L. Boone served as best man. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lester Boone and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fairbotham.

Gondek-Allocca

Clara Gondek of Dearborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gondek spoke her marriage vows with Dominic Allocca of Garden City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Allocca on Saturday, July 19 at 9 o'clock in the evening at the Lutheran parsonage before Rev. Svend Holm. Mr. and Mrs. Robert John Laine of Detroit, attended the couple. The men were here in Grayling with the National Guard.

Love-Decker

Miss Darlene Love, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Love and Charles E. Decker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Decker exchanged marriage vows July 20, at nine o'clock in the morning before Rev. R. C. Puffer at the Decker residence on Vilas Street. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Decker attended the couple. The bride chose a blue suit for the wedding and the matron of honor was attired in grey.

"Dinner was enjoyed at the Lone Pine Restaurant followed by a reception held at the home of the groom's parents in the evening at which 40 guests were present. Out of town guests included the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Miller and Mr. and Mrs. John Laine of Roscommon; Mr. and Mrs. Cary Carrick of Houghton, Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baldwin of Frederic and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moore of Pontiac.

The driver of this car disregarded a plainly marked warning sign and crossed the tracks directly into the path of a passenger train. His machine was swept up like a leaf and raked over the tracks. The driver and two occupants were killed. Signs, lights and bells are placed at crossings for the protection of motorists. Yet 2,000 were killed last year, and 70,000 injured, because they did not trouble to stop, look both ways, and listen for the warning whistle.

Individual Responsibility Big Factor In Highway Accident Reduction

By Thomas H. MacDonald
Commissioner, Public Roads Administration

For the first time in history, this country is mobilized to put an end to the national tragedy of incessantly excessive traffic accidents. It is too much to expect that we shall ever completely eliminate accidents from our busy streets and highways. But the record of last year—approximately 33,600 killed, 1,150,000 injured, and an economic loss of some $2,000,000,000—leaves no room for argument against the cold fact that we must accomplish a very substantial reduction.

With this in mind, President Truman invited to Washington in June, men and women from every part of the nation—public officials

Reckless Flyers To Be Apprehended, Prosecuted

Patrol planes from the Michigan Department of Aeronautics started last week to be on the outlook for violators of safe flying rules and regulations as part of the Michigan Air Safety Program. Col. Floyd E. Evans, director, announced.

The pilots of the state owned patrol planes have been instructed to watch for planes flying low or buzzing, follow the violators to their destination and obtain their names for prosecution.

The action according to Evans has resulted from the increased number of aircraft accidents and violation reports this summer caused primarily from reckless and careless flying on week ends. The Michigan Rules and Regulations specify that safe altitudes for flying are to be not less than 500 feet including both over-water and land areas and violators are subject to prosecution, Evans stated.

Company to Present Aluminum Boats

Harwill Inc. of St. Charles, Michigan will bring a caravan of 20 people here next Sunday to present their new aluminum Aero-Craft boats and aquaplanes. Speedboating, aquaplaning and free rides to spectators will be on the program which will take place on Lake Margrethe.

The series of exhibitions will last all afternoon. The company claims that the new boat combines light-weight with speed and ruggedness. A new V-bottom design combines soft riding with seaworthiness of a round bottom with the speed of the flat bottom. Styrofoam blocks placed under each seat and deck makes the boat unsinkable, company officials say.

Fish Plantings Gain Ground

In the race with time to plant a full million ready-to-catch trout this season, Michigan's fish hatchery workers gained ground last month. In spite of the bad weather handicap of early spring they had stocked, by the first of July, 400,000 legal-size fish.

Heaviest June stocking was in the northern half of the lower peninsula. Sportsmen's assistance and delivery of some outboard motors greatly aided distribution there, according to regional supervisor J. T. Wilkinson. Plantings for the month totaled more than 104,000 legal brook, brown and rainbow trout, and 175,000 fingerlings.

Wilkinson has found considerable evidence that trout caught in his region are regenerating the clipped dorsal fin. He is asking trout fishermen to take a good look at all dorsal fins, to detect regrown ones.

Upper peninsula regional supervisor Stanley Shust reports stocking more than 64,000 legal-size brook, brown, rainbow and lake trout in June, and resuming operation of the rearing station on the Middle Branch of the Ontonagon near Watersmeet, closed all during the war. The station is stocked with brooks and browns, for winter holdover at Cooks Run.

Tagged brook trout in the Middle Branch are proving wanderers. One caught 14 hours after planting had moved a mile and a half downstream, another caught nine days after planting was three miles downstream. Though trout fishing in the peninsula has been good, walleyed pike fishing has been remarkable, and is breaking all records in the Bay de Noc district.

In the southern region, supervisor R. S. Marks reports stocking more than 12,000 brook, brown and rainbow trout, seven inches or longer, in the region's limited trout waters in June.

Bass and bluegills were stocked in ponds in all southern districts for emergency, winterkill and other plantings. Some 383,000 smallmouth-bass-fry was produced at Lydell hatchery for other hatcheries of the region, while largemouth bass and bluegill fry in the limited quantities needed was picked up from local lakes.

YOUTH FELLOWSHIP ORGANIZATION HOLDS PICNIC

Members of the Youth Fellowship Organization of the Michelson Memorial Church Sunday School held their picnic Monday, July 28, at Bear Lake west of Grayling. ## Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Frank LaMotte announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie Pauline, to LeRoy Akers, son of Perry Akers. The wedding will take place in August.

Church Notice

The Lutheran Church picnic did not take place Sunday because of the unsettled weather. It is now postponed until Sunday, August 17, when Rev. Holm returns from his vacation.

Steaks Arrive By Air

John Selesky, left, and the Grayling Air Service brought home the steaks for the officers mess of the 46th Division artillery last week. After Selesky accepted an order for 85 T-bone steaks, he discovered that his regular supplier in Grayling couldn't supply the steaks. Phoning the Peck Packing Company in Bay City, he arranged for the order and then flew one of the Grayling Air Service's planes there in 55 minutes with the aid of a tailwind. W. C. Pugh, center, and Millie Peet, right, are handing the order to Selesky.

UNDERSIZED FISH BRING FINE TO LAKE FISHERMAN

Neal R. Kennedy of Owosso paid a fine of $6 and costs of $6.60 in Justice Emil Giegling's court Monday morning after pleading guilty to having six undersized fish in his possession. He was arrested on Lake Margrethe by Conservation Officer Clarence Roberts.

Governor Sigler Reviews Troops

Governor Kim Sigler reviewed over 3,000 46th Division Michigan National Guard troops, inspected Camp Grayling, awarded the Stewart medal to Staff Sgt. George A. Fitzgerald of Kalamazoo, spoke to the troops and viewed U. S. Army demonstration teams use new type weapons of warfare, during a four hour flying visit here last Thursday.

Also here on Thursday was Brig. General H. W. Kiefer of Chicago who is in charge of plans and training section for the 5th Army. Lt. General Walton Walker of Chicago, commander of the 5th Army with his staff and representatives of the National Guard Bureau at Washington inspected the camp and training maneuvers on Wednesday.

Governor Sigler arrived at the Grayling Airport aboard his private plane and was met and escorted to camp by Brig. General LeRoy Pearson, Adjutant General of Michigan. Following talks with the staff officers of the 46th Division, the Governor inspected the camp before having lunch at the Officers Club. He inspected the 46th Division at the rifle range following the meal and then when presented to the men by Brig. General Ralph Loveland, commander of the division, commended them for their service in the Guard which he termed an outstanding example of good citizenship.

Picked U. S. Army demonstration teams then presented modern fighting equipment, among them being 57 and 75 mm. guns, flame throwers, sniperscopes and various other weapons.

The Governor left for Lansing by plane about 3:30 Thursday afternoon. Troops of the 46th Division received their pay for the encampment on Friday morning and by Friday afternoon trainloads of troops were departing with the remainder of the Guard leaving on Saturday with the exception of a rear detachment who will remain to close the camp for the year.

Locals Defeat Comins Nine

The Grayling Independent Baseball Club emerged victors in a tight pitcher's battle against Comins last Sunday by the narrow margin of 5 to 4. Grayling scored their 5 runs on 10 hits and 5 errors by Comins, while the visitors were able to only push over 4 runs on 13 hits and 4 Grayling misplays.

Kellogg was on the mound for Grayling for the entire game with the exception of the last Comins man to bat who grounded out short to first on a pitch by Leo Granger. Kellogg struck out 4 and issued no base on balls while giving up 13 hits. Lou Smith and Gene Kaiser doubled and Bob Gildner tripled for Grayling, while Emig, Comins first sacker hit a double for the visitors. R. and A. Abbe pitched for Comins.

Last Thursday night, Grayling traveled to Roscommon for a twilight practice game with the league leading Shamrocks winning 4 to 3. Kellogg hurled 4 innings, Bill Muhr was on the mound for 3 and Gene Kaiser chucked for 2 innings. A return game is planned in the near future.

Sunday, Grayling appears at Rose City with the game called for 1:30 P. M. to enable Grayling to return to Fairview and complete a playoff game at about 4:30 or 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon before their return home.

Beaver Creek

Mrs. Roy Millikin was hostess to 18 ladies on Friday afternoon, July 25, at a Stanley Brush party. Light refreshments were served and each lady received at least one practical gift. Mrs. Griffin was the lucky winner of the main prize.

Mr. Forster has been occupying his summer home here and expects to stay all summer.

Mr. Wm. Love and Mr. Forster drove to Prudenville last week in another petition for electricity in Love Grove vicinity.

Services were held Thursday, July 24 at 9 o'clock in the morning at the Visitation Church. The Requiem High Mass was sung by the Rev. Fr. Hart. Burial was in Bay City. Mrs. La Victoire is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Richard Lovely of this city, Mrs. Ruth Gutka of Mt. Pleasant, Mrs. Walter Freuchtel of Saginaw, and five sons, Albert, Cyril, Louis and Archie of Bay City and Isadore La Victoire of Mt. Morris. Mr. La Victoire passed away almost two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lovely and family attended the services.

First North Michigan Pollen Counted

Last week brought the first official count of pollen in the air of northern Michigan, and that a small amount of 15 logged at the Gaylord pollen counting station. The first pollen was noted in the air on last Thursday, July 24. Up to that time, Alpena, Charlevoix, Gaylord, Grayling, Petoskey and Rogers City had not noted one particle of hay fever causing pollen in the air.

The same day that pollen was logged at Gaylord, the other Michigan points of count surveyed no pollen in the air. The following day Gaylord again counted 15 pollen grains per cubic yard of air as did Charlevoix and Petoskey. Grayling had a count of 7. Alpena and Rogers City continued without pollen present in the air. The 26 and 27 of July again found all northern Michigan counting stations registering zero.

Kiwanis Club Notes

A large group of Grayling Kiwanians, their wives and guests gathered at the Gayling Golf Club last Monday evening to enjoy a potluck dinner on the porch and lawn of the club house.

Four large hams and plenty of ice tea were the contributions to the affair by the program chairman for the month, Harold McNeven and George Morrison, while the serving tables were loaded by the dishes furnished by each couple attending.

Out door sports were the main mode of the enjoyable affair with golf, horseshoes and softball being the main attractions.

The Kiwanis Club softball team with Willard Cornell on the mound gained a 2 to 1 edge over the Grayling Lions Club last Friday night at the Golf Club's new softball field when they turned the Lions team back the second straight time.

The score was 15 to 8. The Lions Club took the first game in the five game series by a score of 19 to 10 while the Kiwanis annexed the second game by a 15 to 5 score and then made it 2 to 1 with the win last Friday evening. The fourth game of the series is scheduled for 6:30 P. M., Friday evening, August 8.

MRS. KAREN JOHNSON LAID TO REST

Karen Kirstine Johnson passed away at Mercy Hospital, Friday, July 25, after being confined there following a cerebral hemorrhage. Services were held Monday, July 28 at 1:30 P. M., at the home and 2 P. M. at the Grayling Evangelical Lutheran Church. Rev. Svend Holm officiated. Interment was in Elmwood Cemetery. With the exception of a short time spent in Lewiston, she had lived here ever since. She became the bride of Christ Johnson, who survives, on January 26, 1917. Also surviving are three brothers, Olaf Simonsen of Nebraska, and Edward and Ludwig Simonsen still in Denmark and a niece, Mrs. Jesse Sales of Grayling.

In the latter place Mrs. Moshier's mother, who is attending summer school there, joined them, going as far as Prudenville, en route to spend the week end in Hale. Mr. Moshier had just returned from Tawas, where he assisted Jack Johnson of Hale, with the installation of a complete line of refrigeration for Ferguson's new self-serve market in Tawas.

MGM Shoots Movies Here

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer made a series of technicolor movies in and around Grayling last Thursday that will be integrated into a full color travelogue on places of interest and the resort business in Michigan.

The crew of cameramen and technicolor experts were headed by James Fitzpatrick, who is famous for his full color travel movies. He has taken travelogue pictures all over the world. MGM has now completed two pictures in Michigan this year. The first was on Michigan industry and agriculture.

Shots were made at Camp Grayling of the troops of the newly activated 46th Division and of Governor Kim Sigler. Other movies were made at Hartwick Pines and Fish Hatchery.

The main portion and the one of most local interest was taken on the AuSable River a short distance downstream. Four canoes filled with Grayling young folks were used for films on canoe trips. Each canoe was a different bright color while the canoeists were dressed in colorful shirts, jackets and sweaters. Appearing in the scene were Barbara Borchers, Billy Anne Clippert, Janet Snider and Barbara and Jeanette Clough, Edmund Holm, Edwin Carlson, Roy Milnes, Jr., Gerald Burns and Alan Stevenson.

The film crew were accompanied by Ebb Warren, of the Michigan Conservation Department and Gil Benedict, publicity director for the EMTA.

Polluted Waters May Harbor Virus of Polio

A third precaution among six simple health rules that should be observed during the polio epidemic season is to avoid swimming in polluted waters, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis cautions, through its local chapter.

While proof of direct infection by this means is lacking, the National Foundation points out that research financed by March of Dimes funds indicates that the virus causing polio is often found in sewage.

Consequently, wherever sewage may find its way into waters used for swimming, such waters should be avoided. To be sure, consult your local Health Department.

Take no chances and don't swim in waters known to be polluted.

Crawford County Library
Miss Jeannette Johnston, State Library Consultant spent Friday inspecting the Crawford County Library, and attended a meeting of the Library board Friday evening.

The four new books that have been received as Club selections for the month of July offer a wide variety of reading material, with something to appeal to almost every taste. The Strumpet Wind by Gordon Marrick is one of the still-popular war stories, the story of Roger Chandler, handsome, pleasant American and a strange assignment of intrigue and double-dealing in regard to a captured French traitor whom he should have hated, but didn't. The story contains not a single battle scene, none of the brutality of combat, just Roger Chandler and his problem, mounting with all the tension of a fine stage play, and exploding at least into a powerful climax.

"Madman's Memory" by Roger Verel is sheer romance of the captivating kind that results when Modern Progress, especially if embodied in the form of a handsome and brilliant young engineer, invades the domain of old noble French families who cling fanatically to their ancestral past.

"Treasures of the Kingdom" is an anthology of fiction and fact chosen from the works of Van Dyke, Tolstoy, Jerome K. Jerome, Edna Ferber, Mary Roberts Rhinehart, Lew Wallace, and many others. The collection is edited by T. Everett Harre.

Perhaps the most enjoyable book of the four is "Give Us Our Dream," by Arthemise Goertz, because it deals with the kind of people one meets everywhere, dreaming the dream all of us dream. Having lost her health while held a civilian prisoner of the Japanese during the war, Miss Goertz returned to New York to recuperate. During the long months of her convalescence, she rode endlessly in New York subways and busses, and wandered about New York suburbs. "Give Us Our Dream" is her first novel, set in New York's "Sunnyside" section, and peopled by the bus and subway riders the author met in her long search for health.

To get "Something for Nothing"

The railroads have received 44 "rules" demands from the leaders of the operating unions . . . representing engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and switchmen. They say they are seeking only changes in working conditions—NOT a wage increase.

More Money For Less Work

But what kind of rules are being asked for? Twenty-eight of them would compel railroads to pay more money for the same, or less work; 7 would require additional and unnecessary men to do the same work; the rest would bring about changes in operating practices at increased cost.

For Instance:

The Union leaders demand additional train and engine crews on Diesel-powered trains—one full crew for every power unit in the locomotive. A freight train hauled by a 4-unit Diesel would have to carry 4 engineers, 4 firemen, 4 conductors, and at least 8 brakemen, or a total of 20 men instead of 5.

"Made Work"—Sheer Waste

The Union leaders demand that full-length freight trains be cut to about half their length, even though such trains are most efficient for low-cost service to you. This rule would call for twice as many locomotives, would double the number of trains, and make accidents more likely.

Additional equipment, yards, and other facilities required to take care of these short trains would cost hundreds of millions. What the Union leaders really want is to make more jobs.

The Union leaders demand that when a crew in one class of service perform incidental service of another class, they will be paid not less than a day's pay for each class, even though all service is performed as a part of the same day's ductors and trainmen be reduced from 150 to 100 miles, which would have the effect of increasing their pay 50%. Such a run often takes only two or three hours!

You Can't Afford This Waste

Demands like these are against the interests of the whole American people, who depend on railroad service for nearly everything they eat, wear and use.

These rules would cost A BILLION DOLLARS annually—a gigantic waste which neither the railroads nor the country can afford.

Railroad workers are good citizens and good employees, with pride in their calling. Their record during the war was outstanding. We do not believe they fully understand the "featherbed" rules which the Union leaders are demanding. We do not believe they understand the harmful results which these rules would have to the railroad industry, to the millions of men and women dependent on railroads for their livelihood, and to the shipping and consuming public.

The great strength of America is in production—an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

For only through greater production can we hope to stop the steady upward surge of living costs.

Surely, if ever there was a time in our history when we needed to work, not waste, this is it.

work. The crew would get at least two days' pay for one day's work.

The Union leaders demand that the present basic day for passenger con-

The Unpalatable Truth...

The people of the United States have reached a point where they must face facts. We have been taught to look upon our country as a land of inexhaustible resources. We have lived in sort of a dream world created by our own wishful thinking. We have been told by so-called economists that wages could be raised almost indefinitely without an increase in the cost of living. We have been told that we could go in debt almost indefinitely on the theory that when government borrowed from the people it was not really a debt because the people merely owed the money to themselves.

Now we face the Frankenstein we have built. We have found that more wages for less production per man raises prices enormously. We have found that when we loaned money to ourselves in the form of government bonds, interest on that money has to be collected in taxes and paid to ourselves—this in turn adds greatly to the cost of living.

General Eisenhower has now told us in plain language that with the present condition of the world, it is possible we will be in another war within 12 months.

There is only one way the people of the United States can save themselves. As workers we must learn that an increased income can only be made permanent through increased production per man; we must learn that only by work and saving and economy can we maintain a solvent government, i.e., save the money we have "loaned" to ourselves. It makes no difference whether we allow extravagance in government or extravagance in our families—either will destroy our savings and capital. We must learn that in a world Today we are like a giant who has become soft due to his own excesses. Unless we correct our method of living, we are simply inviting trouble. We have had our warning. We have seen the inevitable results of policies we have pursued. Are we intelligent enough to correct our errors?

 New students at the field include Beatrice Morse of Prudenville, Herbert Feldhauser, who transferred his from Charlotte to complete his course, Edward Sorenson, Dr. Leonard Allison, Kermit E. Bolton, Amos Hoesli, Forrest Annis and Clarence Czekyski.

Governor Sigler landed at the field on Thursday in a new Beech Bonanza. Walter E. Nicol as pilot and the governor as co-pilot, took a party up in the Guard C-47. Adj. General Pearson was in the party.

Twenty-two aircraft landed since the last report, en route to one place or another.

At one time there were four C-47's, and A-26 and an AT-11 at the airport.

There has been a good deal of consternation over the fact that the large planes have been flying so low over the city. This is an unavoidable situation as when the wind is from the northwest the planes in landing must glide over the city and due to the long glide angle that they require, they have to come in low.

Madison Edson and Fred Bair of the Beer Archery Co., and James McDonnell in a CB piloted by Bud McDonald, made a trip to Drummond Island recently, staying over night. They reported wonderful fishing and that folks on Drummond Island are real friendly. If you are interested in such a trip call the airport for further information.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Jane Cupper's
"Daring" Bathing Suit

The Cuppers showed me some tin-types of their nineteen-ten vacation—picnicking on the beach with beer and pretzels, in bathing suits that made them look like they were dressed in street-wear.

Dee was smothered in a long-sleeved pull-over with knee length shorts, and looking embarrassed—as if he thought Jane's costume of a heavy blouse, two copious skirts, and long black stockings was a little daring.

We laughed a lot at these costumes... but come to think of it, as Dee says, we'll probably look just as funny twenty years from now, in what we call our "Modern" clothes. Only thing that won't change in the picture is that melon, wholesome glass of beer.

From where I sit, tolerance that lets us wear sensible, decent clothes—to give us sun and air and freedom—will keep that wholesome glass of beer a part of the American tradition.

She took food from Kit's hands alone and muttered vaguely about poisoning and attempts on her life.
Kit took these imaginings for hal-lucinations, and such they were, for no one had even a vague notion of murdering the old lady. Undoubtedly she had seen their hatred for her in their eyes and now that she was helpless, she imagined that they would take advantage of her.
For some strange reason, one which she did not fully understand herself, she trusted this fiancée of Basil's and would allow her to feed her.

Basil's Boast
Surprises Thomas

Kit slept only while her patient slept, and under her care the old lady seemed to grow stronger each day. Her white face took on color again and on the sixth day she asked Kit to help her brush her hair.

Kit was anxious to help her and to tell Basil quickly of this definite sign of her improvement. She met him down in the front living room later that evening.

"That's fine, baby," he answered her sarcastically when she told him how his grandmother had progressed that day. "Only with you coddling her she'll live to be a hundred!" He laughed, but Kit knew he was secretly anxious about the man quickly. "Well, Baz, if you wanted her to die so quick, why did you bother saving

her?"
"And let her leave half of Martindale to that no-good Davis?" He knew by the look on her face that he had said the wrong thing and hastened to correct himself. "Of course, that's not the reason I saved her. I—well, honestly, Kit, that's a hot question to ask me—why I saved my own grandmother!" He looked at her disgustedly, trying to hide the embarrassment his first and true answer had caused him.

"You mean half of Martindale is willed to Johnny Davis?"

"That's right, it is now. But all that will be changed." He continued after a moment. "I wouldn't mention it to him, if I were you. He doesn't know anything about it. It was all arranged before Dad's sister died when Davis was born. The old lady made her some kind of promise. But as I say, I'd not mention it to him, because you never know what characters like him might do to collect a little money."
He raised his eyebrows.

Kit looked at him defiantly. "You mean to say that Johnny might try to— Oh, Basil! That is the most ridiculous statement I have ever heard." She turned her face from him.

"You have a mistaken idea about our friend Davis, Kit. Why, you know how he tried to take the credit for rescuing the old lady when I

"Oh, how nice to see you here Mrs. Martin."

risks my life to do it. You call that honesty?" He had raised his voice and did not hear the servant enter the room.

Thomas, it appeared, was hunting something. Kit noticed, however, that at the last statement of Basil's, he looked up in surprise.
Basil felt her interest leave him and looked to see who had entered the room. He, too, noticed the strange look on Thomas' face.

"What do you want, Thomas?" he asked curtly.

"Ah—" he stammered as if trying to remember what it was he had come for. "Oh, yes, the new magazine. Your mother wants it in the study. I'm sorry I have disturbed you, sir. Hearing your last remark, I found myself remembering that night of the fire. Horrible experience, wasn't it, sir?" He started to leave the room.

Kit Tenders
Her Resignation

Basil's eyes widened in fear.
Then there was someone who had seen Davis bring out the old lady!
He looked away from the man quickly, deciding that he knew enough to keep his mouth shut. If he didn't—

Kit watched Thomas leave the room. And noticed that when he closed the door he looked again at Basil and hatred showed plainly in his eyes.
The week was a long one for Johnny. He didn't realize how much he would miss Kit not being in the office.

And when she came in unexpectedly on Saturday the happiness of seeing her was written all over his face. He got up from his desk and went to meet her, taking her hand.

"Gee, it's good to see you, Kit!" He was so sincere she blushed when she saw J. D. was looking at them.

"It's good to be here again, too, Johnny. I've missed the place and you—all of you." She turned to J. D. to include him in her meaning.

"Are you back for good, Kit, or just making a report?" J. D. asked, leaning back in his chair and beaming at her almost as much as Johnny had.

"Well, I'm back for—a little while J. D. Long enough for you to find someone to take my place. That shouldn't be hard to do. I—we're going to be married soon now." She looked down at the desk not wanting to look directly at either of them.

The silence was loud in their ears.
Then all three of them started talking at once, and they laughed together.

"All right—now, one at a time," she cautioned, still laughing.

"Well, I was just going to warn you I'll take as long as I possibly can to replace you because I'm sure before I try that I'll not find anyone to even begin to fill your place, Kit." J. D. was using the going hard. "You've stuck by me when I needed you, girl, and I'll remember you for it. Johnny's the best son a man ever had and I only wish I could have had a daughter as fine—that would have to be you, Kit." He smiled at her and she saw his eyes were misty.

When she started to speak she found that J. D.'s compliment had affected her own emotions. She swallowed hard and ran over to him and kissed him on the forehead, putting her arms about him.
"That's just about the nicest thing anybody ever said to me, J.
D."

She saw that this show of affection embarrassed him and she turned to Johnny. "What was it you started to say, Johnny?"

"I guess—I was just going to wish you happiness and all that, Kit. I do, you know. I want you to have the best of everything—always!"
And with that he turned and walked into the outer office

Kit looked puzzled that he should leave so suddenly when he had seemed so genuinely glad to see her a few minutes before. She turned back to J. D.
"How is the Murphy child? I read in the paper that he is some better but still in danger. Do you think he'll make it, J. D.?"
"We all try to think he will, Kit.
He's a plucky little fellow. Johnny and I have been over several times.
He likes Johnny, and we always try to take him something that will amuse him."

"I'd like to go with you to see him, J. D. I've had to stay pretty close to Martindale all week or I would have gone before."
J. D. knew he should ask about Jennifer Martin but he didn't want to seem prying. "How is everything?"

"Fine, if you mean Mrs. Martin.
She'll be eighty-seven next spring and she's as spry as most people middle-aged." She remembered this subject might not be too easy for J. D. and hastened to another.

"But seriously, J. D., I think you won't have any trouble finding a girl for my place, will you? Basil wants me to set a definite date and I thought perhaps the 28th—that's Thanksgiving, you know. Do you think I could leave by then?"
"If it will make you happier, Kit, you can leave today. I want you to be happy, honey. That's the most important thing, and if you have to quit here to be—" but Kit interrupted him.

"J. D., it isn't that. I've never been happier than I've been working for you. I only wish I could keep on working—but—"

"Johnny and I will miss you, Kit."

She seemed embarrassed and added quickly, "Well, I guess that will be mutual, J. D. But we've still some time left and I'm not going out of town, you know. I'll still come around."

J. D. looked at her and they both smiled, knowing how this would be impossible.

"All right, Kit, we'll keep a promise on that anyway," he answered as she left the room.

"See you Monday then." She closed the door behind her. As she walked out the outer door she saw Johnny coming up the steps. He smiled at her but did not say anything and passed her on into the office. As she walked towards Martindale she could not understand why she was so upset.

She took her time to reach the house. Basil and his mother and father had gone out of the city early that morning to make preparations for the coming engagement announcement. It was scheduled for the 30th of October and that was less than a week away.

She was surprised when Thomas let her in to learn that Mrs. Martin was sitting in the downstairs living room awaiting her. She hurried into the room.

"Oh, how nice to see you here, Mrs. Martin. You must be feeling pretty extra special this morning." She sat on the stool at the old lady's feet.

"Thank you, my dear. I feel much stronger. And—I wanted to surprise you. They said you were out.
Did you have a nice morning?" She was sitting by the fire and looking down at Kit with more tenderness than she had shown anyone for long years.

A Conversation
Between Two Women

Kit held her breath. She was about to tell her about J. D. and Johnny when she remembered. As yet she had never had the courage to tell Jennifer Martin that she had worked at the Clarion. The little old lady was regarding her with such earnestness that she felt she could not deceive her any longer.
"Mrs. Martin, I think you should know where I was. Someone might tell you some day that I work there and you would think badly of me—and that I don't want. I work for J. D. Davis—at the Clarion office. I've worked there for seven months now. He was kind enough to let me come here this week to look after you."

The old lady's lip grew tight and her face looked whiter in the light from the fire. She breathed deeply for her thin little frame as if there was courage in the very air she breathed. Finally she spoke. Her voice was shaken and uneven.

CHAPTER XI

"I cannot condemn you for working for that person, Kathryn, although I must confess I wish you hadn't told me. I cannot control your life, but never mention him in this house again, please. He took the most precious possession I ever owned and I have never quite forgotten that he killed her." She stood with much effort and reached for the bell pull. Thomas appeared almost instantly and helped her from the room. She turned as she reached the door. "I shall expect you for tea in my room, Kathryn, then?"
And when Kit nodded she smiled as pleased as a child that has been forgiven its cutting words.
